New Hospital For M. A. Co.

Will Be Most Up to Date
Hospital in the County.

Situated on one of the most commanding sites near Paia will be the new hospital building of the Maui Agricultural Company.

The plans were drawn by Doctor W. F. McConkey and then worked over to completion by Architect Kerr of Honolulu.

The site is an ideal one at an elevation of about seven hundred and fifty feet and is just above the residence of Doctor McConkey who is the plantation physician and who will have charge of the new hospital when completed.

From the hospital a beautiful view of the Pacific can be had while Kahului harbor and its ships is in full view. The view of West Maui is one of the prettiest views in the territory and can be seen at its best from this site. This part of the island was worn by erosion into the most picturesque shapes during the time of the activity of Haleakala and seen at sun rise it is a sight never to be forgotten.

The grounds of the hospital site are ample for all hospital purposes and it is planned to have an ideal tennis court between the hospital grounds and the residence of Doctor McConkey where the residents of Paia and the employees of the plantation may meet and enjoy this sport.

The hospital has been planned with special reference to the local needs and conditions and will be one hundred and seven by one hundred and forty nine feet in dimensions and will be fitted up in the best possible manner and equipped with the most up to date fixtures and implements.

The grounds have been plowed and harrowed and the material is now being hauled to the site where the erection of the building will be begun shortly.

A Ship In Distress

Puts into Kahului Harbor for Refuge.

On Sunday evening the schooner Prosper from Hilo with a cargo of railroad ties from the Hawaiian Mahogany Company anchored off Kahului harbor in a badly leaking condition.

She was on her way to Redondo but as the seams opened up the Captain became alarmed and put into Kahului where she was towed Monday morning and an examination was made by a diver.

The underwriters requested that a board examine her and report her condition.

A board consisting of Captains Parker, Randall and Hall made the survey and ordered her to Honolulu where she will be put on the marine railway after she discharges her cargo.

The tug Intrepid came up and towed the vessel to Honolulu. They left Kahului on Thursday evening. The damage to the vessel is not thought to be serious.

This is the first vessel that has put into Kahului in distress in a number of years.

Memorial Services Held

Company I Observes the Day with Fitting Ceremonies.

On Monday afternoon Captain Bal of Company I called out his company to observe that day that is set apart as the one on which the dead are remembered and their graves decorated by the living.

There was a good turn out of the company and when they reached the police head quarters they were met by that body and preceded by them in their march down High street, Main street, Market and thence up Vineyard street to the cemetery where the assemblage was addressed by Judge Kingsbury who is an old soldier of the civil war.

The address was an able one and much appreciated by those present but was necessarily made short on account of the rain.

Judge Kingsbury was succeeded by Attorney W. F. Crockett who is recognized as one of the ablest speakers of Maui.

Company I then fired the regulation three volleys and as the graves had already been decorated Company I then returned to their armory.

After the return of the men to the armory Captain Bal announced the resignation of Doctor Dinegar from the hospital corps.

Not A Strike Symphizer

J. Onishi Explains His Position.

J. Onishi the Japanese merchant of Kahului states that he is not connected with the Maui Strikers Aid Association as published last week nor was he present at their meeting nor did he give his consent to the use of his name as one of the treasurers of the association.

He says he is not a member of the association nor does he favor the action of the association at its recent meeting.

When asked as to how much he had put up for the aid of the strikers he said that he had not yet given anything. That he had been asked to contribute but had told the member of the committee that he would consider the matter and would probably give two or three dollars late that day.

Japanese In Pilikia

Merchant Skips.—Financial Ruin Faces Orientals.

The Japanese wholesale merchants of this city are feeling the results of the plantation strike severely already. The first case in which a direct loss has resulted came from Wailuku, where Hashimoto, who ran a general store decided that times were bad and left on the Korea without notice to his creditors. He owed the local Japanese stores about $2,500 the chief creditor being Kawahara, of this city.

The jobbers of the city are naturally tightening up on the Japanese merchants, but as yet have taken no extreme measures in regard to the restrictions of credit. This has been on account of the fact that the Japanese wholesalers, under the existing conditions, are not sending in orders. They are placed between two fires. The small merchant, who always has transacted his business on credit comes to them to buy a bill of goods and is asked if he has money. He says that he has not and asks for credit, saying that he has been dealing with the firm for a long time. In all probability he already owes the firm money. If given credit he sells all the goods that he can and puts the money in his pocket to help him to get along through the strike, while the wholesaler must wait.

In speaking of this matter today a local man who occupies a responsible position with one of the largest wholesale houses in the city said:

"The continuation of the strike for any length of time will mean that practically every Japanese wholesaler in the city will be ruined financially. They are being called on for credit which they find it impossible to refuse and they have not the backing to handle the proposition. They cannot under these circumstances expect the jobbers here to give them credit, when they are on such an uncertain basis. What are they going to do?"—Star.

Prospects Are Good

For a Successful Meeting on July 4th.

With the approach of Maui's regular racing day at Kahului, everything points to a successful meet on July 3rd. There is talk of a contingent of Honolulu people arriving here on the morning of the third to take in the races in the morning, and playing a game of base ball in the afternoon after the racing events. Horses are already being entered at the track getting into trim.

The Executive Committee of the Maui Racing Association have already commenced work, and within a short time the track at Kahului will be in the finest of condition.

The success of the meet will depend much upon the patronage of our friends. Maui has only one racing day each year, and that has always been on July 4th. Unless the residents of this Island show some interest in the sport by their patronage and assistance, the racing events at Kahului may become a thing of the past. This should not be. Let us take Hilo's example and encourage races. It proves a benefit to all classes. It brings more people to the island, and everyone that comes, is bound to leave a little coin here. As a result, business in all lines is benefited. Races will commence at 10 o'clock sharp, and the Judges will be instructed to commence on the strike of the clock.

A Fishing Boat Burns

Gasoline Explosion Causes Trouble.

Some Japanese fishermen at Maalea bay had a narrow escape Tuesday night.

Matsui is the owner of a gasoline fishing boat and with some other fishermen was getting his boat in readiness for a trip to sea when one of the men held a lantern near a gasoline leak when the vapor became ignited and an explosion followed.

The Japanese were thrown into the water and only one of the men was burned to any extent.

The men flooded the boat with water and extinguished the fire.

The damage to the boat is said to be considerable.

Doctor Farrell has bought the new Buick automobile of Doctor Dinegar. The automobile is considered one of the best machines of its size on the island and was bought at a bargain. When Doctor Farrell first came to Wailuku he called on Dr. Dinegar but the latter not only failed to return the call but neglected to even speak to Doctor Farrell since then. To those who know of the steadily growing practice of Doctor Farrell, and the goodness on the part of Dr. Dinegar, the change of ownership of the auto has caused more than one smile.

Attorney J. M. Vivas was a passenger to the metropolis this week. Rumor has it that he and Dr. Dinegar and some others are thinking of starting a news paper in Wailuku. Fred J. Church was talked of as a possible manager for the concern but Fred side stepped.
